The following observations made on above subject: serials of ur questions…. Answers as 1.2…etc

1. Bilatral to be continued , however with limited restrictions how to use. A. not to be given repeated benefits out of its profits, subsidies. This is at one single point.
   b. An international standards to be matrixed with a view of changing climate change and keepingGHG in mind initially to enable to control over long and short range of spillover c.This kind of accounts dealt with consultation with the tax regulatory assoicatio n authority, provided to be registered by providing separate register, to enable any mistake can be identified easily and avoid spillover since it is under observation.

2. That become a problem because , it favours at one point or one country. So it is place to search more ways and means of escape and brunch of spillover with excuses. Further it leads for corruption in case of certain countries prone for it. In Developed countries like USA inspite of corruption it makes donation., as an alternative substitute to misdeals.
3. Yes it is observed openly in the capital market/s. In India case about a Decade back specified brokers used it and they also misused the mechanisms of Bankers including multinational bankers, results inside big fraud trade and finally collapsed markets. The similar incidents in singaporte which misused money of a banker which leads imprisioned for life long a british citizen. Another recent one incidents of Bitcoins..
4. I don’t recomand all like as US but some can be transferred to uniform and regulate … but still many to be addressed and issues will rises at all tiems…
5. It differs to case to case. However in case of capital markets let us talk that is although with perview of its reserve bank, but controlled by brokers leads inside trade and outside index, this to be regulated by concerned regulatory authority from time to time to enable it not to impress in the market. In other incident pricing may not impact in developing countries because it develops the middle men /broker.

6. The kind of approach initially maintained what extent pricing fixed and what rate. Because it also depends upon political body in developing countries. Hence external factors donot make any counter impact once if it is fixed at initially could stop messing up and mixing up. However it is not a concreat solution.
7. Corporate profits are significantly part of economic structure. It cannot violate. I hope your view in differ it may be good for bankers but not to the corporate world.
8. I donot see any harm, but it may not address well. Being a wide variation in indexing indicators of this tax , many objects to be addressed, which will make a big farm than a simplified.

The above comments may be considered from our end.

Although we are not sure of it , persuation of these kind of situations in past, present… this was our experiences., as a case study which gave a brief example without naming persons.

ThanQ for your endevour per persuation of such complex issues.
