

Alun Thomas is a senior economist in the Africa Department of the IMF. He works on the biannual Regional Economic Outlook that the Department produces. He has written extensively on oil related issues and on natural resources management and the Department's latest publication on the topic is being launched during the conference. He frequently makes presentations at the main African international conferences: African Oxford conference, AfDB/UNECA annual conference, AERC conference.