Compositional changes do not appear to have an important role in recent nominal wage growth dynamics. All advanced economies are close to the 45-degree line, indicating that aggregate wage growth is driven by within-sector developments.

Sources: Eurostat; national authorities; and IMF staff calculations.
Note: The wage variable used is annual wage per worker excluding the self-employed.