(Percent of GDP, 2012 or latest)

Sources: Country authorities; OECD (2012); and IMF staff estimates.

¹ For non-OECD economies refer to fiscal costs reported in the budget, including transfers to loss making energy producing companies. For OECD economies and China, food subsidies are from OECD and include also foregone revenues.

² Includes the United States, the European Union, and Canada.
