By increasing external competitive pressure, openness to trade contributes to more pro-competitive labor market reforms. In contrast, openness seems to discourage tax reforms.

Source: IMF staff calculations.

1Trade openness is defined as the sum of imports and exports of goods and services in percent of GDP.