Real house prices fluctuate over time, but the recent boom is exceptional; while house prices have been buoyant, their volatility has declined markedly.

Sources: IMF, International Financial Statistics; national sources; and IMF staff calculations.